HOUSING CRISIS? We can help.

The City and County of Denver has launched a new pilot program to assist residents who may be facing a housing crisis. Through the new Temporary Rental and Utility Assistance program (TRUA), the City is offering resources to help mitigate displacement, help residents avoid eviction, and provide time to help connect residents to alternative housing for longer-term stability.

If you . . .
- Are in a housing crisis
- Can’t pay your rent
- Need help with utilities
- Live in housing that is uninhabitable
- Are experiencing eviction

Your next step . . . Call 3-1-1 and press 6

How it will work . . .
- You will be asked some basic questions, like your ZIP code
- A local nonprofit partner will be assigned to help you

You will be asked to . . .
- Provide proof of your household income
- Provide proof of Denver residency
- Provide proof of your rent due, or rent increase notice
- Provide information about the cause of your housing crisis (job loss, unsafe housing conditions, potential eviction, and/or shutoff notice)

You can get . . .
- Up to 80% of your rent paid
- Two months or up to $1,000 of utility bills paid
- Time to figure out your housing options

Things to know:
- This program is for Denver residents only
- This is temporary assistance when you face a housing crisis
- We can pay up to 80% of your monthly rent
- Assistance payments will be made directly to your landlord or utility company
- Your household must meet income limits (earning $47,000 or less for one person, or $67,100 or less for a household of four)
- Assistance is available during tenant/landlord mediation

Questions?

Denver 3-1-1 can help connect you to a local nonprofit organization working on this program – either Brothers Redevelopment Inc. or Northeast Denver Housing Center (determined by your ZIP code). The nonprofit you are referred to will help you understand what information or documents you will need to submit.
